Gaining Access to the FamilySearch Family Tree

Click
here

The FamilySearch Family Tree is currently being tested. If you would like to be one of the testers, you can submit a request online.

1. Go to http://www.familysearch.org/invite/familytree_tab.
2. Enter the required information in the fields provided.

Important: When you enter your user name and password, enter the same user name and password that you use on familysearch.org and new.familysearch.org. This lets you see your FamilySearch Family Tree and all of your changes as they appear in new.familysearch.org in the FamilySearch Family Tree.

3. Click Register.

The FamilySearch FamilySearch Family Tree appears. You are in the main position on the screen.

To get to the FamilySearch Family Tree from now on, go to www.familysearch.org, and sign in. The link to the Family Tree appears in the upper-left corner of the screen, next to the FamilySearch logo.

Using the FamilySearch Family Tree

The FamilySearch Family Tree is an online family tree application that allows you to collaborate with others to build, share, manage, and preserve your family history online. It uses the same database as new.familysearch.org, and it will eventually replace that application.

To use the FamilySearch Family Tree, your FamilySearch Account or LDS FamilySearch Account must be authorized. Even if you already use new.familysearch.org, your account must be authorized to use the FamilySearch Family Tree.

The screenshot shows the FamilySearch website interface. At the top, the navigation bar includes 'FAMILYSEARCH', 'Family Tree' (circled in purple), 'Learn', 'FamilySearch Centers', 'Indexing', 'Blog', 'Rich Rands', and 'Help'. Below this, a secondary navigation bar has 'Tree', 'Person', 'Search', and 'Watch List'. A purple callout box with the text 'Voilà!!!' is positioned over the 'Family Tree' link and the 'Search' link. The main content area displays a family tree structure with several empty boxes for adding information. The boxes contain the following text:

- Rich Rands Living
Add Wife
- Add Husband
Add Wife
- Rich Rands Living
Add Wife
- Rich Rands Living
